News & Opportunities

Draft Catchment Action Plan Consultation Meeting

Northern Rivers and Border Rivers Gwydir CMA's will host a community consultation meeting in Glen Innes next Monday, 22 October from 5:00 to 8:00pm.

Both CMA's now have their draft Catchment Action Plans available in their websites for review and invite your feedback to ensure that this plan reflects community views. Feedback needs to be supplied by the 9th November 2012.

Anyone interested in the future of natural resource management is invited to attend.

Pasture To Pocket workshop for Young Farmers

The Pasture to Pocket workshop will run next week from Tuesday to Thursday. We still have a few vacant positions, so if you are interested in learning more about making more money from running livestock make sure you attend.

The workshop is offered at a subsidised rate of $100 per person and includes workshop notes and all meals for the three days.

Contact GLENRAC to RSVP by the 19th of October or when all places are filled—first in best dressed!

Rummers Hill Landcare Group Meeting Now 21st October

This meeting will now be held this Sunday from 9:30am to 12:30pm. Topics to be discussed include review coordinated fox baiting program and future weed control activities and wildlife survey. Guest speakers will be Jonathan Lawson and Phil Sparkes. More details are available on the GLENRAC website.

Sustainable Farming Practices Grants now open

The BRG CMA Sustainable Farming Practices grants is now open. This year they are seeking applications from groups of 2 or more neighboring landholders who want to undertake work to achieve a shared goal.

Funding will be available for

- * Practices that improve water quality and/or soil health or condition;
- * Activities that increase the area of land managed within its capability
- * Field days/demonstration days highlighting management methods.

Expression of interest forms available from GLENRAC or the BRG CMA website. For more information contact the GLENRAC office on 02 6732 3443 or BRG CMA on 02 6728 8034. Submissions close 26th October 2012
